Betsy-

I'm able to check my DPH email, but only because of my own initiative. It took a while, and I'm not exactly sure what I did, but I found a way to check it. Anyways, we're about 10 days behind here, though I could go a little faster if they'd let me. I've had a variety of drugs to test for (mushrooms, PCP, MDMA, MDA, LSD) plus a THC quant and a few alcohol quants, so I've learned some new things. The variety is nice - help keep me from getting too bored.

So, how was Peter's wedding? It must be nice not having him around for a little bit :)

Tanq's adjusting well to country life, and he loves the 2 pugs that moved in up-stairs. We went on a walk the other day and once again he decided that the best thing to do when he sees a Rottie is bark like crazy, raise his hair, and try to provoke the Rottie to attack (thank God it didn't work!), so we have some issues to work out, but anyways...

That's about it from here. Praying for the Sox and cheering for the Pats.
